CAPONE GETS YEAR IN JAIL 13 HOURS AFTER ARREST

PHILADELPHIA LAW IS SWIFT FOR GANGSTER

Chicago Beer Baron and Bodyguard Nabbed For Concealed Weapons.

PHILADELPHIA, May 17.—"Scarface Al" Capone, notorious Chicago beer baron, and his bodyguard, Frank Cline, pleaded guilty to carrying concealed weapons in municipal court today and were given sentences of one year each in the county prison by Judge John A. Walsh.

The men decided to plead guilty after a conference with their attorneys Bernard L. Lemisch and Cornelius Haggarty, Jr. They had previously been directed to stand "mute" and Judge Walsh had directed a "not guilty" plea to be entered on the records for each of the men.

Indictment, trial and sentencing of the men occurred about 13 hours after their arrest last night.

MAXIMUM SENTENCE
Their prison sentence is the maximum that can be imposed under Pennsylvania statutes for this offense. Judge Walsh also could have fined each $500.

Capone and his bodyguard arrived here shortly after dark last night from Atlantic City where he had been living since leaving Miami a few days ago. Two of the city's crack detectives spotted the pair as they got off of a train at the Broad station here. They were trailed to a motion picture theatre at 19th and Market streets. When they left the show the arrests took place.

Capone, married, was en route to Chicago and only stopped off here to catch another train. Despite declarations by defense counsel that the men were being railroaded they were arraigned before Edward Carney, known as Philadelphia's "dancing magistrate" and held in $35,000 bail each for the grand jury.

IMMEDIATE TRIAL

The grand jury at the insistence of the district attorney returned true bills against the pair after a few minutes deliberation this forenoon. The judge who received the indictments ordered the pair brought to immediate trial.

Judge Walsh refused to heed the objections of defense counsel and a jury was quickly secured. Court then recessed to permit counsel time to confer with their clients. The case ended abruptly when the pair pleaded guilty following a short recess.

The two prisoners smiled at the spectators in the packed courtroom when brought in by several detectives. Capone apparently took the trial as another one of a long series he has encountered but always escaped without being convicted. The sentence was the first prison term he had ever received.

PLEAS CHANGED

Lemisch announced the men would stand "mute" when they were called upon to stand before the court. Neither man said a word as Judge Walsh ordered "not guilty" pleas be placed in the records. Later he advised his clients to plead guilty following a long side bar conference.

Capone threw his light grey felt hat on the table before him and scowled.

The two indictments were again produced. Both defendants still remained silent and Lemisch pleaded guilty for them.

Judge Walsh brusquely disposed of the case. He heard no testimony, whatsoever. As soon as the pleas were entered, he said:

The entire proceeding took less than a minute.

As sentence was pronounced the pair were led from the courtroom.

Neither Capone or Cline said anything as they glanced furtively at the spectators as they were being led away.

They will be taken to the Holmesburg prison immediately to begin their penal servitude. Under the statutes they can be released after they have served 10 months in prison if their behavior is satisfactory.

Circleville's Selection as Successor To Edison Excels in Scientific Work

W. Kenneth Ulm Regarded As "Smartest Boy" In Local High School.

W. Kenneth Ulm has been chosen from the Circleville high school by the principal and superintendent as the outstanding boy in Circleville as a possible successor to Thomas A. Edison and will go to Columbus to submit to final tests given by the state department of education and by Governor Myers Y. Cooper.

Kenneth has always been known as the smartest boy in his class since the first grade in school. As long as the state has been giving intelligence tests "Kenny" always has stood highest with apparently little effort, and these tests embraced every possible subject. But it was in science that Kenneth has always shown to best advantage.

As I. E. Cephart, the high school principal, has said: "Kenneth takes to science as a duck takes to water." His knowledge in this subject has always been remarkable through the four years of high school. In his junior year his grade for the year's work was 97. This year his grade in chemistry is 98. He acted as student laboratory assistant in these two courses, in physics as a junior, and in chemistry as a senior.

Aside from the marks of a genius, Kenneth always has had time for more than the ordinary participation in other class work and school organizations. He is a member of Quill and Pen, honorary high school journalistic fraternity. He is secretary and treasurer of the Hi-Y, and member of the annual staff. He has acted as stage manager in many of the high school performances and takes an active part in nearly every student organization at the high school.

He was 17 years old in December.

PETITION HITS DOGS' RACING

Church Members Ask Madison-Co Officials To Prevent Gambling.

Madison-co's sheriff and prosecutor have been handed a request, signed by 200 church and Sunday school members of the county, asking them to uphold laws against gambling.

The request is in support of Gov. Cooper's recent pronouncement, issued directly at the proposed opening Saturday of dog races in West Jefferson, that officials all over the state would enforce gambling laws.

The request handed to the Madison-co officials read:

"Whereas, We, the undersigned, consider dog racing and the betting that is a part of it a detriment to the spiritual, moral and material welfare of the people in this county.

"We respectfully request you to take whatever steps may be necessary to prevent dog racing in Madison-co."

LOCAL ROTARIANS GET GOLF HONORS

The 40 Circleville Rotarians who journeyed to Chillicothe Thursday night to the Inter-City meeting were well repaid for their trip in listening to the address of Rotarian Ed. R. Kelsey on "Your Rotary and Mine."

Rotarian Kelsey, being past vice president of Rotary International and quite active for many years in Rotary, was well able to give his listeners a world of good sound Rotary principles.

After having a sumptuous chicken dinner served and being entertained with vocal numbers by Art Howson and John Buskirk and hearing Ed. Kelsey, the members who attended all said it was the best Inter-City meeting they have attended.

In the afternoon a bogey golf tournament was held at the Chillicothe Country club and Thos. Gilliland was winner with the lowest net score and Press Enderlin was a winner with the highest score, so they came home to Circleville with a number of new golf balls.

Kenneth Ulm

ber and will graduate this June from high school. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Ulm, 531 N. Court-st. Mr. Ulm is cashier at the First National bank.

After the final selection is made the Ohio boy who promises outstanding success in science will go to the Edison laboratories in New Jersey for a final examination before the great wizard, himself. The national survivor will receive a scholarship in some great technical school at Edison's expense.

RETURNS HOME WITHOUT MAN

Texas Authorities Refuse To Surrender Edward Henson To Davis.

Sheriff Frank Davis, who went to Sinton, Texas, last week to return Edward C. Henson, formerly of Orient, to this county to face a charge of non-support of his two children, came back to Circleville Thursday without his prisoner.

Prosecutor Emmitt Crist believes a conspiracy exists in the Texas town to prevent Henson from being extradited to this state.

He was arrested here a year ago on the non-support charge, but was given to the Texas authorities who wanted him on a charge of embezzlement preferred by the American Express Co. when the Texans agreed to return him to Ohio when their charge against him was settled.

Henson was recently tried on the embezzlement charge and received a suspended sentence. Prosecutor Crist learned that Florida authorities also wanted him on an embezzlement charge and took steps to return him to Ohio.

With the necessary extradition papers, Sheriff Davis went to Sinton after Henson, but the authorities there refused to surrender him, declaring they had another charge against him, but refusing to tell Sheriff Davis what the charge was.

Sheriff Davis immediately went to Gov. Dan Moody, who asked to keep the extradition papers, declaring that Henson would be turned over to the Pickaway-co authorities as soon as the charges against him were cleared up at Sinton. Sheriff Davis reported that Gov. Moody seemed displeased with the attitude of the Sinton authorities.

Prosecutor Crist said Friday that the Henson case is the first in which his office has failed to extradite a defendant at his cost.

SCIENCE SEEKS CAUSES BEHIND X-RAY BLAST

Unofficial Sources Estimate Deaths at 127 As Experts View Ruins.

CLEVELAND, May 17.—Dr. A. J. Pearse, Cuyahoga-co, coroner, temporarily suspended his investigation of the horrible Cleveland clinic disaster today and turned that institution into a research laboratory.

The coroner received a delegation from Chicago, headed by Dr. A. H. Kegel, health commissioner, and the party went to the clinic ruins to make investigations which it is hoped will form the bases of measures for preventing such catastrophes in the future.

At that time unofficial sources estimated the death toll as high as 127, including two deaths in the last 12 hours. H. L. Rockwood, city health commissioner, had official records of 118 deaths.

16 NEAR DEATH
Latest hospital reports told of 16 patients in critical condition at Cleveland clinic hospital, a unit of the ill fated institution, and 12 more in Mt. Sinai hospital.

There was little hope that the 28 would be able to triumph in their battle with the dreaded "slow death" which has cast a pall of sorrow over Cleveland since last Wednesday when exploding X-Ray film filled the clinic with poisonous gas.

Dr. Pearse had planned to question Sam Steele, maintenance man and electrician at the clinic, but decided to defer the investigation in the belief that more could be accomplished by accompanying the Chicago experts to the ruins.

Other delegations from Washington and Pittsburgh were due later in the day. They too will don firemen's rubber boots and coats and examine the ruins in the interests of science.

DEBRIS IS LABORATORY

The devastated clinic has, in fact, been converted into a research laboratory where the expert toxicologists will study the conditions under which the deadly gas, now believed to be nitric oxide, was generated.

Dr. Pearse pointed out that the Cleveland disaster was so unusual and of such grave proportions that it had attracted the attention of scientists all over the country, many of whom will come here to investigate its causes and effects.

Out of the scientists' work probably will come standardized practices for handling the X-Ray accessories which when ignited, become so deadly.

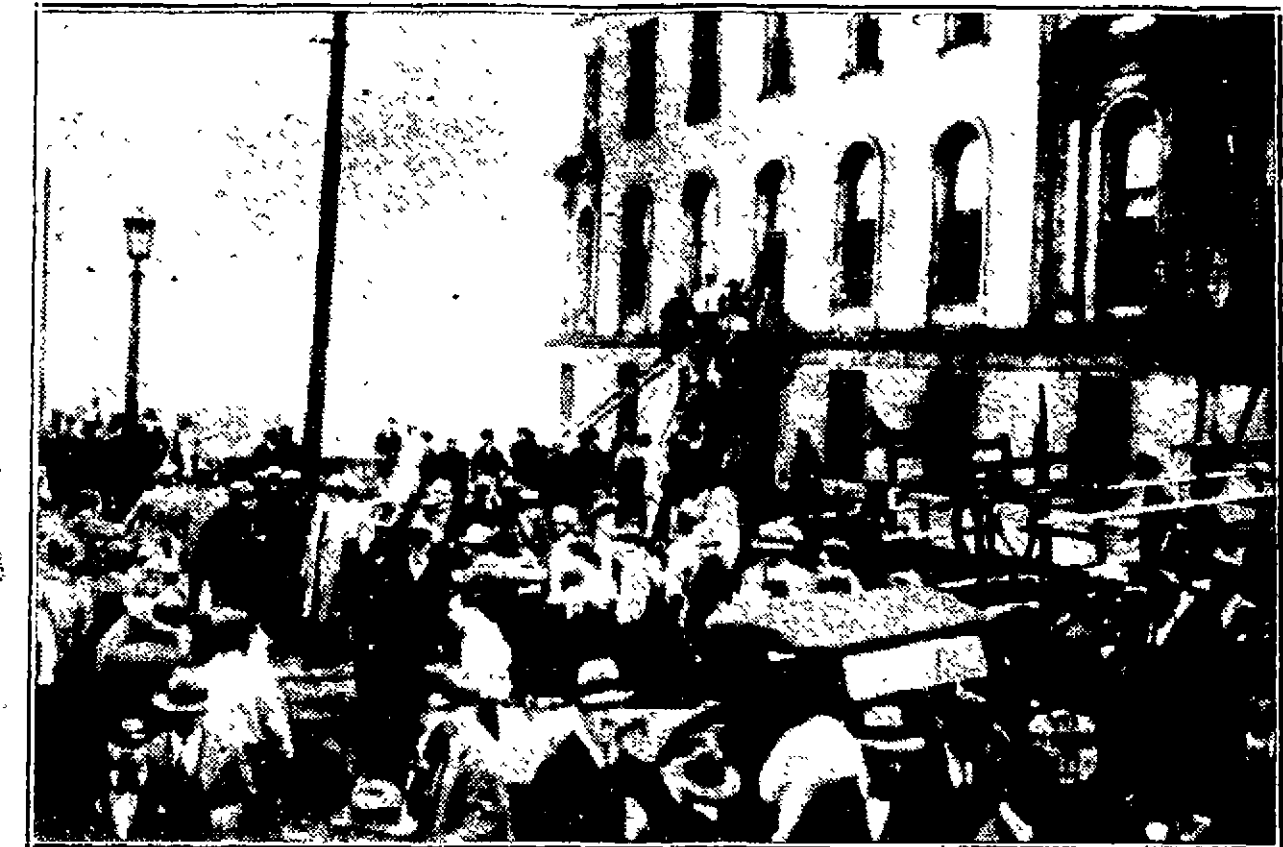

WITNESS IN JAIL
Later in the day Dr. Pearse may resume his investigation, the purpose of which is to establish the cause and fix responsibility. He has definitely announced there will be no coroner's jury and intimated that he is satisfied no one was criminally responsible.

Steele was held incommunicado in the central police station until the coroner finds time to interrogate him. Dr. Pearse feels that Steele may be able to furnish some important facts as he was working in the basement at the time of the explosion.

HE WAS VISITING

When Charles Brantner, 27-year-old son of Roy Brantner, Ashville, failed to return home Thursday night, Circleville police were asked to look for him. However, the youth returned home Friday morning, explaining that he had spent the night at the home of a neighboring church.

HOSPITAL EXPLOSION KILLS MORE THAN 120

Firemen and volunteer rescuers are seen carrying out victims of the Cleveland Clinic Hospital in Cleveland, Ohio, in which more than 120 patients, doctors and nurses died when an explosion occurred in the X-ray room. Following the explosion gases were loosened which caused the deaths of many.

MUSIC MARKS SCIOTO TALK

Dr. Ellis Snyder Uses Songs To Illustrate Commencement Address.

Graduates of the Scioto-two high school, their relatives and friends enjoyed a unique class address at the annual commencement exercises at the school in Commercial Point, Thursday night when Dr. Ellis E. Snyder, head of the music department of Capital university, Columbus, and son of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Snyder Ashville, spoke on "The Song of Life."

Dr. Snyder illustrated his address with 10 songs, each typical of various periods in life from the cradle to the grave. All of the songs, beginning with "Tommy Lad" he sang accompanied by Miss Stonerock, of Columbus. It provided the most unusual and pleasing class address of the commencements in the county schools to date.

The class salutatory was given by Helen Rhodes, the class history by Marguerite Trego and the valedictory by Ruth McMillen. Music was provided by the Girls' chorus and the senior class quartet. Rev. Rhodes pronounced the invocation and benediction.

Members of the graduating class who received diplomas are: Carl E. Armentrout, Mildred P. Chaffin, Paul M. Lewis, Ellsworth L. Patterson, Marguerite Trego, Audra E. Vorhees, Mazie B. Burnett, Opal M. Clark, Ruth E. McMillen, Florence H. Rhodes, Harry K. Thraikill and L. Arthur Wilkins.

Saturday night at 8 o'clock the 31st annual reunion of the Scioto-two alumni will be held at the school building.

Insilage Cheaper Than Corn Feeding For Steers, Local Cattlemen Learn

Experiment Farm Demonstration Shows Results of These Two Rations.

A number of Pickaway-co cattle feeders and County Agent H. S. Lewis visited the Madison-co experiment farm at London Thursday to attend the final check-up of the tests on corn silage versus corn in steer rations. The Pickaway-co feeders at the demonstration were John Boggs, John Walters, Harley Mace, Earl Vincent, Herbert Vincent, Theodore Vincent, Richard Vincent and Earl Vincent Jr.

County Agent Lewis' report on the demonstration is as follows: "On Nov. 21, 1928, 24 steers were brought into the feed lot at the Madison-co Experiment Farm, London, to determine under feeding trial the most efficient way of handling the corn crop in economic beef production. There were 13 acres of corn in the field which was measured and divided, one half of the crop being cut, husked and cribbed. In the opinion of Paul Gerlaugh chief of animal industry department, Ohio Experiment station, Wooster, and H. W. Rogers, superintendent of the experiment farm, it would take more cattle to consume the silage acreage than the corn acreage and 14 of the cattle were started in the silage lot and 10 cattle in the corn lot.

GAIN BEST ON CORN
The average daily ration in the silage lot was 47 pounds of insilage, two pounds of cotton seed meal and 1.2 pounds mixed hay. In the shelled corn lot, 163 pounds of corn, 9.5 pounds corn stover, 2 pounds cotton seed meal and 1.6 pounds mixed hay. Both lots of cattle were on feed 174 days. The silage fed cattle had an initial weight of 622 pounds and a final weight of 971 pounds or an average daily gain of 2.01 pounds. The corn lot had an initial weight of 607 pounds, with a final weight of 998 pounds or an average daily gain of 2.24 pounds.

"Beef Per Acre" The silage fed cattle yielded 752 pounds of beef per acre of corn fed while the corn fed yielded 372 pounds of beef per acre. Most folks would think that there would be a wide difference in pork produced back of these cattle but the trial shows that the silage fed cattle produced 39 pounds of pork per acre, while the corn lot produced 67 pounds of pork. The feed cost per 100 pounds gain was $10.22 on the silage fed cattle and $11.75 on the corn lot.

"The returns per acre of corn fed including both beef and pork was $71.65 on the silage fed cattle and $50.80 on the corn lot. These cattle were appraised on the basis of the Pittsburgh market at $14 for the silage cattle and $14.75 for the corn fed cattle.

"The cattle feeder who thinks it costs too much to fill his silage should give careful consideration to the above facts $5.53 per hundred additional feed cost would take care of quite a silage filling expense. Three hundred and eighty pounds of beef per acre also means quite an item in feed conservation. In the above experiment the silage fed cattle yielded a profit of $5.12 per head more than the corn fed cattle."

URGES VISIT AT AIR FIELD

D. D. Dowden Says Aviation Review Saturday Will Be Spectacular.

D. D. Dowden, president of the Circleville chapter of the National Aeronautic association, urges all members of the organization to attend the air review which will be staged at Norton field, Columbus in connection with the air ground maneuvers.

Dowden, who is a daily visitor at the field during the maneuvers said Friday that it will be worth anyone's time to spend a few hours at the "Red Air Forces" base and witness the stunt and formation flying.

The air review to be staged Saturday will be a combination of the planes of both the Red and Blue forces and will make a unit of 200 planes. This review will be the most spectacular ever staged in this section of the country and one of the most elaborate displays of air equipment ever held by the U. S. Army Air Force.

Military rules will be enforced during the entire period of the maneuvers. No one will be permitted to enter Norton Field proper at any time during the maneuvers without a military pass. Spectators may come up to the fence on the north boundary of the field at all times with the exception of Saturday. During the review on that day the public will be barred from a one-half mile area surrounding the field. This includes the regular parking space between the field and Broad-st. according to regulations posted by the commanding officer.

GLENNA LOSES BRITISH TITLE

American Golf Star Beaten on 35th Green of Final Round By Champion.

ST. ANDREWS, FIFE, SCOTLAND, May 17.—Joyce Wethered, England's greatest woman golfer, won the British women's championship for the fourth time today when she eliminated Glenna Collett, the American champion, by three and one in the final round.

Miss Collett, the first American woman to reach the finals of the event in the 36 years of competition, succumbed to her great rival on the 35th green after one of the hardest-fought matches ever played for the title. She played good golf but no woman golfer in the world could have beaten Joyce Wethered today.

Making her third attempt to annex the crown which no American girl ever had won, Glenna reeled off the first nine holes of the morning round in 34, two strokes under par, to become five up. But from then on Miss Wethered came to the fore to overcome an apparently impossible disadvantage. She was only two down at the end of 18 holes and took the lead on the twenty-second, never to be headed.

Experiment Farm Demonstration Shows Results of These Two Rations.

A number of Pickaway-co cattle feeders and County Agent H. S. Lewis visited the Madison-co experiment farm at London Thursday to attend the final check-up of the tests on corn silage versus corn in steer rations. The Pickaway-co feeders at the demonstration were John Boggs, John Walters, Harley Mace, Earl Vincent, Herbert Vincent, Theodore Vincent, Richard Vincent and Earl Vincent Jr.

County Agent Lewis' report on the demonstration is as follows: "On Nov. 21, 1928, 24 steers were brought into the feed lot at the Madison-co Experiment Farm, London, to determine under feeding trial the most efficient way of handling the corn crop in economic beef production. There were 13 acres of corn in the field which was measured and divided, one half of the crop being cut, husked and cribbed. In the opinion of Paul Gerlaugh chief of animal industry department, Ohio Experiment station, Wooster, and H. W. Rogers, superintendent of the experiment farm, it would take more cattle to consume the silage acreage than the corn acreage and 14 of the cattle were started in the silage lot and 10 cattle in the corn lot.

The average daily ration in the silage lot was 47 pounds of cotton seed meal and 1.2 pounds mixed hay. In the silage lot 16.3 pounds of corn, 9.5 pounds corn stover, 2 pounds cotton seed meal and 1.6 pounds mixed hay. Both lots of cattle were on feed 174 days. The silage fed cattle had an initial weight of 622 pounds and a final weight of 971 pounds or an average daily gain of 2.01 pounds. The corn lot had an initial weight of 607 pounds, with a final weight of 998 pounds or an average daily gain of 2.24 pounds.

"Beef Per Acre: The silage fed cattle yielded 752 pounds of beef per acre of corn fed while the corn fed yielded 372 pounds of beef per acre. Most folks would think that there would be a wide difference in pork produced back of these cattle, but the trial shows that the silage fed cattle produced 39 pounds of pork per acre, while the corn lot produced 67 pounds of pork. The feed cost per 100 pounds gain was $10.22 on the silage fed cattle and $15.75 on the corn lot.

Dowden, who is a daily visitor at the field during the maneuvers said Friday that it will be worth anyone's time to spend a few hours at the "Red Air Forces" base and witness the stunt and formation flying.

The air review to be staged Saturday will be a combination of the planes of both the Red and Blue forces and will make a unit of 200 planes. This review will be the most spectacular ever staged in this section of the country and one of the most elaborate displays of air equipment ever held by the U. S. Army Air Force.

Military rules will be enforced during the entire period of the maneuver. No one will be permitted to enter Norton Field property at any time during the mock war without a military pass. Spectators may come up to the fence on the north boundary of the field at all times with the exception of Saturday. During the review on this day the public will be barred from a one-half mile area surrounding the field. This includes the regular parking space between the field and Broad-st, according to regulations posted by the commanding officer.

The huge ship had been traveling toward Salon but upon nearing the Alps mountains changed its course directly south, in the general direction of Toulon.

A landing had been previously attempted at Valance, but was unsuccessful. Wireless reports from the air ship stated that it would attempt to land at Cuers, Pierre Feu Airdrome, six miles from Toulon if she can reach that position.

REDS CLAIM AIR VICTORY

Ohio Residents In Doubt As To Outcome of Mythical War Over State.

By International News Service
Who's winning this war, anyhow?" was the crucial question being asked over Ohio today by thousands of people who are interested and excitedly watching the 11-day mock war, now being fought over the Buckeye state.

The war ended its second day with the stroke of midnight. In answer to the question Brig. Gen. B. J. Foullos said: "It really doesn't matter." He declared that the principle involved is the training of staffs and birdmen of the United States army.

"It was a tie, yesterday," was the report of most commanding officers of both the Blue and Red air forces, which are staging the biggest aerial demonstration ever displayed in this country.

Red aviators, who are defending Norton Field and Eastern Ohio, claim a victory, however. Numerous battles and "dog-fights" occurred yesterday.

American Golf Star Beaten on 35th Green of Final Round By Champion.

ST. ANDREWS, FIFE, SCOTLAND, May 17.—Joyce Wethered England's greatest woman golfer, won the British women's championship for the fourth time today when she eliminated Glenna Collett, the American champion, by three and one in the final round.

Miss Collett, the first American woman to reach the finals of the event in the 36 years of competition, succumbed to her great rival on the 35th green after one of the hardest-fought matches ever played for the title. She played good golf, but no woman golfer in the world could have beaten Joyce Wethered today.

Making her third attempt to annex the crown which no American girl ever had won, Glenna reeled off the first nine holes of the morning round in 34, two strokes under par, to become five up. But from then on Miss Wethered came to the fore to overcome an apparently impossible disadvantage. She was only two down at the end of 18 holes and took the lead at the twenty-second, never to be headed.

SPINAGO DAILY DRIVING MISERY AND SUFFERING FROM CIRCLEVILLE HOMES

Over Two Thousand Bottles of Spinago Has Been Sold at the Mykrantz Pharmacy in Circleville Alone Since Feb. 1st, On An Absolute Guarantee Basis.

Father and Son Both Thankful To Spinago For Driving Away Suffering Caused By Stomach and Digestive Ailments.

Mr. William Morris, who resides in Circleville at 118 E. Water St., was among the first residents of this city to reap the harvest of good health through the use of Spinago. It was due to his recommendation that his son started on the treatment. Mr. Morris is a very enthusiastic supporter of the new wonder tonic as is shown by the following statement made by him just after he had taken two bottles.

"For about ten years I had been suffering from constipation and stomach trouble. During this whole time I tried one medicine after another from drug stores and doctors—the misery was unbearable. I had no appetite whatever. My bodily resistance was weakened and I was in a terribly

Here is a case where two members of one family have found the way to health through the use of Spinago—where happiness has returned to an entire family after this wonderful new tonic entered the home.

SANFORD MORRIS

Not long ago Mr. William Morris of 118 E. Water St., came into the Mykrantz pharmacy, 107 N. Court St., Spinago headquarters, to give praise to this new master medicine for the wonderful health it had brought to him. At that time Mr. Morris said that he had started his son on Spinago and was sure that he would experience the same results. Last week young Mr. Sanford Morris, 12 years old, who lives with his father at 118 E. Water St., came to the Mykrantz Pharmacy for his second bottle of this new Spinago tonic and was so pleased with what it had done for him that he made the following statement:

"It isn't only grown-ups who have stomach trouble. Believe me, because I had it. My stomach hurt every time I ate anything. It just didn't seem to digest. I couldn't eat candy or soda, or even my regular meals without awful pains. My face was all broken out with pimples and daddy made me take medicine most of the time because I was constipated. I don't like to take medicine. I guess no boys do. And especially if it doesn't make you feel any better. Then one day daddy told me he was going to let me try some of the same medicine that he was taking and he brought home a bottle for me. So I quit taking all the other medicines I had been using and started Spinago. It doesn't taste like other medicine at all. It is sort of good and I like it. I'm so glad I took it because now I don't have those pains every time I eat; my face is not broken out and I don't have to take nasty tasting medicines all the time. Daddy says that I eat more than anyone else in the family and I guess he's right because I sure am hungry at meal times. I am taking my second bottle now and want to tell all the other boys and girls in Circleville how well it has made me feel."

WANT TO KNOW
"WHAT IS SPINAGO?"

Skeptical Sufferers Don't Believe New Tonic Containing Spinach Can Work Such Wonders.

Many sufferers who have heard of the wonders worked by Spinago in so many cases in Circleville are skeptical; they don't believe it is possible. They ask—"How can any tonic do it? What is Spinago?"

The answer is simple: Spinago can accomplish such feats because it is a tonic based upon a practical idea. An idea that has been tested through many years. That Spinach is one of the most valuable foods obtainable to combat stomach and digestive ailments and to make rich blood. For many, many years doctors have recommended Spinach in diets for these ailments and it is a generally accepted fact that Spinach makes the blood pure, rich and red. And if the blood is pure, rich and red you must be healthy. But in order to derive the great benefits from Spinago it is necessary to eat large quantities of it. Due to the great content of moisture and other elements which are not of any special benefit to the body, if fresh Spinach is dried until all this moisture is driven out, we have left a fine powder containing only the elements which are of benefit. One pound of this powder, due to its concentrated form, contains as much of the elements valuable to the body as fifteen pounds of fresh, green spinach. In other words this powder is concentrated Spinach.

This then is the reason why Spinago can work such wonders. Its main ingredient is concentrated dry, powdered Spinach contained in each bottle in sufficient quantity to produce the beneficial results of a great quantity of fresh Spinach. To this important basic ingredient, the following well known roots, herbs and barks are added: Sarsaparilla, mandrake, dandelion, prickly ash, poke root, gentian, cascara, licorice, burdock and wild cherry scientifically compounded with other valuable ingredients of recognized medicinal value under a process and in proportion known only to the manufacturer.

Based upon such a formula it is not surprising that Spinago has performed feats which seem almost like miracles.

Spinago sells for $1.00, or 3 Bottles for $2.50; it is sold on an absolute money back guarantee.

CROOK STORY SEEN, HEARD

Bert Lytell Comes To Cliftona
In "The Lone Wolf's Daughter."

"The Lone Wolf's Daughter," a Columbia production opening at the Cliftona theater Friday is the greatest of the Lone Wolf stories by Louis Joseph Vance. Once more Bert Lytell, who created the role in pictures, comes to the screen as the famous cracksmen. This time he is presented in entirely new surroundings with sound effect and dialogue.

The colorful and luxurious appointments of antique auction rooms, palatial residences and country estate made gay by weekend parties furnish ideal backgrounds for the mystery, action, intrigue and plotting of a pair of international crooks, who use the "Lone Wolf's" daughter as a decoy. Her love affairs prove a snare for the cracksmen, who is taxed to the limit of his skill and ingenuity in sliding out from under the arm of the law.

A television apparatus provides a new means securing thrills and dramatic situations. The production was made under the direction of Albert S. Rogell. The cast in support of Lytell includes such well-known players as Gertrude Olmstead, Charles Gerrard, Lilyan Tashman, Donald Keith, Florence Allen, Robert Elliott and Ruth Cherrington.

"WE AMERICANS"
Patsy Ruth Miller, George Sidney and George Lewis are starred at the Grand theater tonight in "We Americans," an outstanding romantic and emotional drama of the conflict today between the younger and older generation. The fourth chapter of "The Diamond Master" also will be shown.

SENIOR CLASS PLAY

The class of 1929 of the Atlanta high school will leave a record in the success of its class play. Not only was it a highly entertaining play, showing excellent preparation on the part of the cast, but also scored an unprecedented seat sale. "The Adventures of Grandpa," a comedy drama with a plot which holds the attention, humorous complications and clever lines that provoked constant laughter. The plot hinges on the honeymoon of a young couple, interrupted by the rushing in of "Monte" Ray, grandpa's grandson in an excited tone tells the young couple that "Grandpa" is coming to visit him and he is under the impression that "Monte" is married and unless he can prove himself such, he can never share Grandpa's millions and insists that he might borrow the wife of the young dancing master, so grandpa will only remain for a few hours. It develops amusingly and its difficult situations went over with a smoothness unusual in an amateur performance.

It was a three-act play staged in the reception room of Hunter Dancing Academy. Kenneth Peart played the role of grandpa, and his natural clever acting won him enthusiastic applause. Carroll Hughes, who played the part of grandpa's grandson contributed a generous share to the merriment of the audience. Charles Duval did extremely good work as a policeman and his makeup was typical. Oakley Turner, a young dancing master, carried the role of the bridegroom with a poise and finish quite professional and was so good looking that it was no wonder the bride, Miss Mary Skinner, fell for him. And she, as a lead in former plays, goes out from this one with her share of plaudits and fresh honors. Miss Lois Ater was throughout the typical old maid, suspicious, irate and zealous and played her part good. Miss Mary Clements, just out of college playing the part of the lover of grandpa's grandson, she was dignified, sweet and cultured and carried her role with ease. Miss Carrie Skinner carried her role with grace and ease, a typical pretty young girl and her sweet voice and naturalness were as always, factors in the way she carried her role. Miss Mabel Hoskins impersonated the role of maid very cleverly. It was a

PRAYER—"My dear Redeemer and my Lord, I read my duty in Thy Word."

THE CROSSING SATURNALIA

"Stop, Look and Listen" should be to the driver of a motor vehicle
the most significant and impressive words in the English language, but on the basis of grade crossing accident statistics they mean nothing to the majority of such drivers. If the crossing warnings are seen at all by the heedless and headlong, it is to be ignored. Grade crossing practice is usually just the opposite of grade crossing preaching.

This editorial discussion is most timely as the motoring season finds its stride with the consequent and inevitable increase in fatal collisions where the highway meets the railway. Already the tide of grade crossing accidents is running toward the flood.

As long as highways cross railroads at grade and human nature remains human nature there will be crossing accidents. A dozen danger signs and signals at a crossing will not save the heedless driver, who places too great trust in providence. And these tragic suicides and homicides cannot be prevented by law.

If these deaths were confined to the most dangerous and most traveled crossings, the problem would be simply one of eliminating a relatively few crossings. But a great majority of them happen
where the view is unobstructed and to persons who know of the danger. Although the government and railroads are spending millions each year in grade crossing elimination, they increase in number each year due to the development of new territory.

The only way out, it seems, is to evolve new and better crossing warnings and to continue telling the motorist not to commit suicide and murder his passengers.

FUNNY

The absurd lengths to which the censorship idea can sometimes be carried is brilliantly illustrated in the seizure of a 1750 edition of Rabelais by the New York customs authorities. The volume, published in Europe by a Philadelphia bibliophile, has been confiscated on the ground that it is obscene. Yet, as the outraged Philadelphian has pointed out in a letter to the commissioner of customs, the book has been published by four reputable American publishers and can be obtained at almost any book store in the United States.

If there is to be censorship of books, the stage, the movies or what not, it at least should be based on common sense and ordinary intelligence. The customs inspectors can hardly be expected to be familiar with the work of every author, for of the making of books there is truly no end. But before they take it upon themselves to judge obscenity in literature, the least they can do is to become reasonably familiar with the names of the classics.

To seize a book by Rabelais at this late date is, indeed, in the words of the suffering Philadelphian in question, funny.

Keep Ideals High

A famous artist strictly resolved not to look at silly or funny picture simply because when he himself wished to paint, all these funny pictures cross his thoughts and consequently they were interwoven in his work. Hence he made it a rule to look only at great masterpieces. By doing this he ever kept his mind full of great conceptions, and thus he found it much easier to paint great pictures himself. If people would only make it a rule to observe only that which is great and good, they would find it much easier to live a great and pure life.

Daphne by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

DAPHNE HAINES, seventeen and lovely, finds life intolerable because of a nagging, jealous stepmother whose main aim is to promote a courtship between her own daughter, Crystal, and wealthy, attractive Ralph McKevitt. Catching a fleeting glimpse of Daphne, the "prize" young man admires her. Mrs. Haines, fearing the rivalry of the young girl, schemes to eliminate her from the scene. Daphne dismays when she realizes how completely these two calculating women have her father in their power, comforts herself by spinning secret dreams of a day when someone will really love her—a man, big, powerful, handsome, like Ralph! A sordid quarrel is provoked between Haines and his wife because of the woman's reckless expenditures. Subtly Mrs. Haines draws Daphne into the brawl. Feeling the hopelessness of her situation, Daphne determines to make her own way in the world, and leaves for San Francisco. With twenty dollars capital she seeks employment and learns it is hard to find. Daphne has an unpleasant experience with a prospective employer and in her haste to get away from him, leaves a purse containing her last five dollars in his office.
The wolf seems perilously close.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER IX.

HAD Gartz taken the five dollars to punish her, or make her come back to claim it?
Or the black-satin girl, could it have been she? Daphne wondered, speculating upon the possibilities as she might have if it had been someone else's purse, some other girl's hard luck. Perhaps the money fell out earlier in the day . . . she didn't care very much.
"I'm glad I gave him the fifty cents, poor old fellow!" she thought with a faint glow of satisfaction, remembering the elevation of a man's pleasure. "I'll make a difference to him. I know he didn't take the money anyway."

"You could ink that place on your heel so the hole wouldn't show so much," the girl next to her said, pointing to the gaping hole in Daphne's stocking again. "I used to ink my leg when I got holes in black stockings. I always wear beige now—beige are better
—a run hardly shows."

"But there's no beige ink!"
Daphne giggled. Beige ink! What a crazy idea! She giggled again, hysterically.

The girl turned away, disgusted with her, and Daphne sank back into the half stupor that had claimed her. She sat there all day, rousing herself at intervals, to answer the questions that were put to her. No, she hadn't had any experience in a bank. No, she couldn't run a comptometer. No, she didn't mind working in a pickle factory.

It really looked as though she might get the pickle job, but they finally decided to "let her know later." Daphne knew what that meant.

"I ought to feel simply awful!"
she thought on her way back from the pickle factory. "It's twenty-four hours since I've eaten, and only five cents—and no job—"

But she wasn't even hungry any more, and she was as light-hearted as she was light-headed. Nothing mattered. She had stopped worrying about what was going to happen to her.

When the office closed at half-past five she walked leisurely down Market street, pausing to look in the windows. Hardware.
Gentleman's furnishings. Office supplies. Camping outfits. She looked at them all, impartially, seeing nothing.

Street cars jangled past, automobiles pressed close to the curb in the rush of traffic, commuters bound for the ferry brushed her impatiently aside. And it came to her, suddenly, that she was the only one in all that hurrying crowd who wasn't rushing somewhere for dinner. There came a sinking feeling in the middle of her stomach, a queer gnawing . . .

"But I'm not really hungry!"
she reassured herself. "I don't feel a bit like eating. I never felt like this when I was hungry before. . . .
I wonder if I'm going to be sick.
I feel so funny . . . my head . . .
wonder what people would say if I sat down on the curb over there . . ."

"But I'm not really hungry!"
She kept on walking, one foot before the other, counting the steps crazily . . . eight hundred and ninety-nine, nine hundred, nine hundred and one, two, three . . .
After a while, without knowing or caring just how she got there,
she found herself at the ferry,
and then, far up the Embarkadero, at one of the wharves. It had grown dark, there were lights in the street lamps, lights twinkling
in the shacks on Telegraph Hill.

a few old oranges, a rotting cantaloup . . . lap, lap, lap . . . so quiet, and dark . . .

"I've got to go home," she whispered to herself. "I can't stay here any longer!"
A red roadster whizzed by, a girl's shrill, happy laughter tinkled, lingered a moment, and was gone
in a whiff of gasoline.
A pickup maybe. Girls did things like that. Other girls did, why couldn't she? It would be nice to ride in a fast red car, and stop somewhere where it was bright and light, for something hot to eat.
Something hot. She pulled her coat tighter about her. It was getting cold there on the pier.
Two drunken seamen lurched
by. One of them was singing softly, in a sentimental whiskey

tenor . . . "Lay my head be-neath
the rose . . ."
Daphne listened, huddled in the shadows. . . . "Be-neath the rose."
It was oddly sweet in the silence of the wharf . . . And the lurching seamen weren't alone, they had each other.

"I'll do it!" she decided hotly.
"I'll pick someone up. Everybody else does. I don't know why I shouldn't!"
Mr. Gartz . . . whatever made him pop into her head? Mr. Gartz, and his wet, thick lips on her neck . . . Ugh! She scrubbed at the spot, just below her right ear.
Sickened at the remembrance . . .
It wasn't any use, she couldn't do it.

She leaned against the shed again, straining her ears to hear the last of the sailor's song, hearing instead the soft lap, lap of the water . . . a cradle song. A song for her . . .
She looked over the edge . . .

dark and quiet with just the crate bobbing up and down, up an down, peacefully . . . It would be so bad to be bobbing up and down there, dead . . . if you were too close to the edge . . . an fall in . . .

Lap, lap, lap . . . the water against the piles . . . talking to her . . . If she should fall in . . .
accidentally . . .
She wouldn't do it, of course but her feet were bringing her nearer the edge. Her hands were searching in the small red purse for her card case, to destroy the cards, just in case . . . The nickel.
She pulled it out thoughtfully. It seemed a shame not to spend it first . . .

She stood looking at it in the darkness, feeling its shiny side.
Suppose it were only a telephone slug? "Well, I'll go spend it anyway," she thought whimsically.
"I'll buy a cup of coffee down here somewhere, and if it's bogus I'll say I couldn't see in the dark!"
A cup of coffee! She could almost taste it, could almost smell its hot fragrance . . .
She ran all the way back to the ferry, keeping close to the lights away from the piers. She was suddenly afraid of the smooth, oily water.

When you have only a nickel
you have to read the menu posted on the window to make sure coffee won't be ten cents. It was five at the "Java Inn," just a block from the Ferry Building. A nice, clean looking place, with a plate glass window, and a red-faced cook in a white cap, hopping hot cakes merrily. The most delicious smell of coffee and toast, and frying steaks, came out to her on the sidewalk. She pushed in the door

BIBLE THOUGHT

AN INVITATION AND A PLEDGE—Thus saith the Lord of hosts; Turn ye unto me, saith the Lord of hosts, and I will turn unto you, saith the Lord of hosts.—Zachariah 1:3.
PRAYER—"My dear Redeemer and my Lord, I read my duty in Thy Word."

"Stop, Look and Listen" should be to the driver of a motor vehicle the most significant and impressive words in the English language, but on the basis of grade crossing accident statistics they mean nothing to the majority of such drivers. If the crossing warnings are seen at all by the heedless and headlong, it is to be ignored. Grade crossing practice is usually just the opposite of grade crossing preaching.

This editorial discussion is most timely as the motoring season finds its stride with the consequent and inevitable increase in fatal collisions where the highway meets the railway. Already the tide of grade crossing accidents is running toward the flood.

As long as highways cross railroads at grade and human nature remains human nature there will be crossing accidents. A dozen danger signs and signals at a crossing will not save the heedless driver, who places too great trust in providence. And these tragic suicides and homicides cannot be prevented by law.

If these deaths were confined to the most dangerous and most traveled crossings, the problem would be simply one of eliminating a relatively few crossings. But a great majority of them happen where the view is unobstructed and to persons who know of the danger. Although the government and railroads are spending millions each year in grade crossing elimination, they increase in number each year due to the development of new territory.

The only way out, it seems, is to evolve new and better crossing warnings and to continue telling the motorist not to commit suicide and murder his passengers.

FUNNY

The absurd lengths to which the censorship idea can sometimes be carried is brilliantly illustrated in the seizure of a 1750 edition of Rabelais by the New York customs authorities. The volume, published in Europe by a Philadelphia bibliophile, has been confiscated on the ground that it is obscene. Yet, as the outraged Philadelphia has pointed out in a letter to the commissioner of customs, the book has been published by four reputable American publishers and can be obtained at almost any book store in the United States.

If there is to be censorship of books, the stage, the movies or what not, it at least should be based on common sense and ordinary intelligence. The customs inspectors can hardly be expected to be familiar with the work of every author, for of the making of books there is truly no end. But before they take it upon themselves to judge obscenity in literature, the least they can do is to become reasonably familiar with the names of the classics.

To seize a book by Rabelais at this late date is, indeed, in the words of the suffering Philadelphia in question, funny.

Keep Ideals High

A famous artist strictly resolved not to look at silly or funny picture simply because when he himself wished to paint, all these funny pictures crossed his thoughts and consequently they were interwoven in his work. Hence he made it a rule to look only at great masterpieces. By doing this he ever kept his mind full of great conceptions, and thus he found it much easier to paint great pictures himself. If people would only make it a rule to observe only that which is great and good, they would find it much easier to live a great and pure life.

Daphne

by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

DAPHNE HAINES, seventeen and lovely, finds life intolerable because of a nagging, jealous stepmother whose main aim is to promote a courtship between her own daughter, Crystal, and the "prize" young man admires her. Mrs. Haines, fearing of Daphne, the "prize" of the younger girl, schemes to eliminate her from the scene. Daphne dismayed when she realizes how completely these two calculating women have her father in their power, comforts herself by spinning secret dreams of a day when someone will really love her—a man, big, powerful, handsome, like Ralph! A sordid quarrel is provoked between Haines and his wife because of the woman's reckless expenditures. Subtly Mrs. Haines draws Daphne into the brawl. Feeling the hopelessness of her situation, Daphne determines to make her own way in the world, and leaves for San Francisco. With twenty dollars capital she seeks employment and learns it is hard to find. Daphne has an unpleasant experience with a prospective employer and in her haste to get away from him, leaves a purse containing her last five dollars in his office. The wolf seems perilously close.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER IX.

HAD Gartz taken the five dollars to punish her, or make her come back to claim it?

Or the black-satin girl, could it have been she? Daphne wondered, speculating upon the possibilities as she might have if it had been someone else's purse, some other girl's hard luck. Perhaps the money fell out earlier in the day, but it didn't matter.

she didn't care very much. "I'm glad I gave him the fifty cents, poor old fellow!" she thought with a faint glow of satisfaction, remembering the elevator man's pleasure.

But she didn't make a difference to him. I know he didn't take the money anyway—"

"You could ink that place on your heel so the hole wouldn't show so much," the girl next to her said, pointing to the gaping hole in Daphne's stocking again. "I used to ink my leg when I got holes in black stockings. I always wear beige now—beige are better—a run hardly shows."

"But there's no beige ink!" Daphne gurgled. Beige ink! What a crazy idea! She giggled again, hysterically.

The girl turned away, disgusted with her, and Daphne sank back into the half stupor that had claimed her. She sat there all day, rousing herself at intervals, to answer the questions that were put to her. No, she hadn't had any experience in a bank. No, she couldn't run a comptometer. No, she didn't mind working in a pickle factory.

It really looked as though she might get the pickle job, but they finally decided to "let her know later." Daphne knew what that meant.

"I ought to feel simply awful!" she thought on her way back from the pickle factory. "It's twenty-four hours since I've eaten, and only five cents—and no job."

But she wasn't even hungry any more, and she was as light-headed as she was light-headed. Nothing mattered. She had stopped worrying about what was going to happen to her.

When the office closed at half-past five she walked leisurely down Market street, pausing to look in the windows. Hardware, Gentlemen's furnishings, Office supplies. Camping outfits. She looked at them all, impartially, seeing nothing.

Street cars jangled past, automobiles pressed close to the curb in the rush of traffic, commuters bound for the ferry brushed her impatiently aside. And it came to her, suddenly, that she was the only one in all that hurrying crowd who wasn't rushing somewhere for dinner. There came a sinking feeling the middle of her stomach, a queer mawing.

"But I'm not really hungry!" she reassured herself. "I don't feel a bit like eating. I never felt like this when I was hungry before. . . I wonder if I'm going to be sick. I feel so funny. . . my head. . . wonder what people would say if I sat down on the curb over there."

"But I'm not really hungry!" She kept on walking, one foot before the other, counting the steps crazily. . . eight hundred and ninety-nine, nine hundred, nine hundred and one, two, three. . .

After a while, without knowing or caring just how she got there, she found herself at the ferry, and then, far up the Embarkadero, at one of the wharves. It had grown dark, there were lights in the street lamps, lights twinkling in the shacks on Telegraph Hill.

25 YEARS AGO

Miss Georgia DeMorrow was in Columbus today and attended the "Little Minister" with Maude Adams at the Great Southern theater.

Frank Bennett, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Bennett or this city is manager of the baseball team at lights on the ferries on the bay. The hours between six and eight had slipped away somehow. . . time to be walking home.

Daphne read the menu to make sure that coffee wouldn't cost ten cents.

Miles and miles to walk, and she was so tired, she had walked so far. She'd ride home, spend that last five cents. You can't buy anything with five cents anyway, no use keeping it. . . Yes, and if she did that she'd have to walk back in the morning. How long can you live without eating? Thirty days, forty days? How long can you hang around an employment agency without getting a job? Forever maybe. Besides her room rent would be up in six days, and then what?

What do you do when you have no money, and no place to sleep? The Salvation Army, or the police station. . . "Please, can I sleep in the jail?" What an idea! She laughed aloud, and the sound of her own laugh frightened her. . . what if someone heard. . . what if someone saw her standing there by the water so long. . . They'd think. . .

She looked down at the dark water, lapping gently against the piles. A crate bobbed up and down, a few old oranges, a rotting cantaloup. . . lap, lap, lap. . . so quiet, and dark. . .

"I've got to go home!" she whispered to herself. "I can't stay here any longer!"

A red roadster whizzed by, a girl's shrill, happy laughter tinkled, lingered a moment, and was gone in a swirl of gasoline. . .

A pickup maybe. Girls did things like that. Other girls did, why couldn't she? It would be nice to ride in a fast red car, and stop somewhere where it was bright and light, for something hot to eat. Something hot. She pulled her coat tighter about her. It was getting cold there on the pier.

Two drunken seamen lurched by. One of them was singing softly, in a sentimental whiskey dark and quiet with just the crate bobbing up and down, up and down, peacefully. . . it wouldn't be so bad to be bobbing up and down there, dead. . . if you were too close to the edge. . .

Lap, lap, lap. . . the water against the piles. . . talking to her. . . If she should fall in. . . accidentally. . .

She wouldn't do it, of course, but her feet were bringing her nearer the edge. Her hands were searching in the small red purse for her card case, to destroy the cards, just in case. . . The nickel she pulled it out thoughtfully. It seemed a shame not to spend it first. . .

She stood looking at it in the darkness, feeling its shiny sides. Suppose it were only a telephone slug! "Well, I'll go spend it anyway!" she thought whimsically. "I'll buy a cup of coffee down here somewhere, and if it's bogus I'll say I couldn't see in the dark!"

A cup of coffee! She could almost taste it, could almost smell its hot fragrance. . .

She ran all the way back to the ferry, keeping close to the lights away from the piers. She was suddenly afraid of the smooth, oily water. . .

When you have only a nickel, you have to read the menu posted on the window to make sure coffee won't be ten cents. It was five at the "Java Inn," just a block from the Ferry Building. A nice, clean looking place, with a plate glass window, and a red-faced cook in a white cap, flipping hot cakes merrily. The most delicious smell of coffee and toast, and frying steaks, came out to her on the sidewalk. She pushed in the door. (To Be Continued.)

WHAT PRICE GOODNESS?

When the children rush home after school for a sandwich, when you have a bridge party and serve a luncheon, when your family gathers in the evening for the most important meal of the day, what of the bread you serve?

If it is Wallace's Bread, then it is the best at any price. Not only is it more nourishing, but the creamy richness adds a matchless flavor.

If Wallace's Bread sold for more money, it still would be worth it!

THURSTON SLAYER TO ESCAPE CHAIR

COLUMBUS, O., May 17.—Robert E. Stone, 48, whose indictment on a first degree murder charge for the slaying of Charles Thurston, a brother of the famous magician, nine years ago, followed the confession of an admitted co-conspirator after the latter had seen a picture of Howard Thurston, today stood convicted of that charge.

A jury after deliberating eight hours, and taking 12 ballots found Stone guilty of first degree murder, but recommended mercy, thereby saving the man from the electric chair.

MOVIE STRIKE IS PREDICTED

Equity Association Desires
Only Union Actors In Films, Is Report.

(Copyright 1929 By I. N. S.)
NEW YORK, May 17.—Midsummer may find the motion picture industry—America's fifth largest industry—paralyzed by a general strike of actors.

It May Be Urgent

When your Children Cry for It

Castoria is a comfort when Baby is fretful. No sooner taken than the little one is at ease. Restless, a few drops soon bring contentment. No harm done, for Castoria is a baby remedy, meant for babies. Perfectly safe to give the youngest infant; you have the doctors' word for that! It is a vegetable product and you could use it every day. But it's in an emergency that Castoria means most. Some night when constipation must be relieved—or colic pains—or other suffering. Never be without it; some mothers keep an extra bottle unopened, to make sure there will always be Castoria in the house. It is effective for older children, too; read the book that comes with it.

This prediction was made exclusively by the International Brotherhood of Actors, who are the only union of actors in the motion picture field.

The Equity association, which will be organized in the city of the Actors Equity association to control the production of motion pictures to include only Equity actors and to enter into an agreement with the motion picture industry to secure the best wages and working conditions and the men and women who enact their parts.

The Equity association, according to information in Warner's possession, plans to issue an ultimatum to the film producers some time early in June.

This ultimatum will constitute a demand that the producers meet Equity requirements in the employment of actors and other persons pertaining to the production of motion pictures—something which the producers have steadfastly refused to do ever since the movie assumed a position of importance in the entertainment world.

Two couples remain in the contest.

"Dirty ring around the washtubs" is a dangerous sign.

It means the clothes aren't snowy white. It means there's dirt in them. It means scum forms when you put soap in the water. And that means you're using hard water. Scum always forms in hard water.

What to do? Soften the water with MeLo and it is a wonderful cleaner, with or without soap. No dirty ring forms. The clothes wash snowy white. Dainty! Suds. And you use only 1/2 or 1/3 the amount of soap ordinarily used in hard water. Get rid of that dirty ring! Get rid of it by buying and using MeLo. Get MeLo at your grocer's.

Old Time Legal Date

Lady day was originally the name for all the days in the church calendar marking any event in the Virgin Mary's life, but now restricted to the feast of the annunciation, held on the twenty-fifth of March each year. Lady day was in medieval and later times the beginning of the legal year in England. In 1752 this was altered to the first of January, but the twenty-fifth of March remains one of the quarter days; though in some parts old lady day, on the sixth of April, is still the date for rent paying.

WHITE SOX

WHAT TH' ARE YA DOIN'!

GOSH, BUCK, ARE YOU HERE?

ALREADY ON THIRD "RED" TRIED TO STEAL TH' BASE IN TH' 10TH WORLD'S SERIES BETWEEN TH' WHITE SOX AN' TH' GIANTS.

(c) 1929. King Features Syndicate, Inc. Great Britain rights reserved.

By QUIN HALL.
THIS Summer, Red Faber of the Chicago White Sox, expects to have one of the best seasons of his career as a big league pitcher. And Red is no longer a kid in knee pants or otherwise. As a matter of fact, Red has already started on his twenty-first year as a moundman in fast company.

Faber attributes his long spell of usefulness on the hill to the spitball, the moist delivery which was tabooed by the baseball powers some years ago. When the rule was put into effect, however, it was agreed that those already in the big leagues who employed the wet finger on the horsehide might continue its use as long as they remained in the game. Fellows like

Jack Quinn, of the A's; Grimes, of the Pirates, and Faber have profited. All of them are old timers in the pastime and all of them seem good for at least a few more seasons. Quinn, who is in his twentieth year, had a remarkably good season last Summer. And he's started brilliantly this season. The spitball is one of the trickiest deliveries to solve, and yet it is one of the easiest throws on an aging wing. Faber mixes it up with a curve, and he is known as one of the most feared tossers in the American League. Red perfected the delivery years ago when an arm injury ruined his curve. Later his curve came back, and for a good many years he's been one of the White Sox mainstays. Aside from being a good flinger,

ONE OF TH' TWO SPIT-BALL TWIRLERS LEFT IN TH' AMERICAN LEAGUE, FABER IS EXPECTING A GREAT SEASON IN HIS 21st YEAR IN B.B. JACK QUINN, OF TH' ATHLETICS AN' TH' OTHER MOIST BALL DELIVERERS IS IN HIS 20th SEASON THIS YEAR.

"Jacob's Ladders"

The name "Jacob's ladder" was given to the ladder reaching from earth to heaven seen in a vision by Jacob. This is also a name given to a short rope ladder on shipboard and to an apparatus for raising light weights to a considerable height. An endless revolving chain of buckets, filling themselves at the bottom of the chain and emptying themselves at the top, formerly much used in breweries and distilleries, is known as a "Jacob's ladder."

CHILLICOTHE, May 17.—F. L. McClain, Greenfield, president of the American Pad & Textile Co., with plants in Greenfield, Chillcothe and Chatam, Ontario, announced Thursday his company soon would resume operations with the making of cushions for automobiles, displacing the manufacture of pads for horse collars. The Greenfield plant will be enlarged to care for working stock in the other plants.

Value for Value
Price for Price!

If you are considering the purchase of an automobile, you owe it to yourself to learn the true extent of Chevrolet's value leadership. And all you need to do is check the new Chevrolet Six against any other car—value for value and price for price!

Here, in the price range of the four, is offered a smooth, powerful, six-cylinder valve-in-head motor—which delivers better than 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline—and whose smooth, quiet, velvety operation, with its complete lack of drumming and vibration, is a revelation—even to those who are accustomed to driving high-priced automobiles. Here are beautiful bodies by Fisher. Here, in all closed models, are fitments by Ternerstedt . . . rich, deep-tufted upholsteries . . . adjustable driver's seat . . . and a completely-equipped instrument panel. And throughout the entire chassis are found numerous examples of advanced engineering—such as quiet, non-locking 4-wheel brakes . . . ball bearing steering mechanism . . . automatic acceleration pump . . . and chromium plating on all bright metal.

But no mere recital of features can give you any conception of Chevrolet's value leadership. So we urge you to come in and see for yourself why over 500,000 people have chosen the new Chevrolet Six since January 1st!

COMPARE the delivered price as well as the list price in considering automobile values. Chevrolet's delivered prices include only reasonable charges for delivery and financing.

FOR those who like to be out and going—top down—nothing but blue skies above—Nash designers built three smart "400" Cabriolets.

With the top up and windows raised, they are luxurious closed cars—with the top down and windows either down or up, they are smart open cars. All have a big, comfortable, roomy rumble seat.

The Standard Six Cabriolet is one of the most popular cars in its price field, because it combines the smart open-enclosed motoring vogue with Standard Six performance superiority.

It has a big, high compression, 7-bearing motor for power and speed—"400" steering for the world's easiest driving—Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers, for cushioned smoothness over all kinds of roads.

The Special and Advanced Six Cabriolets are distinguished by such "400" features as the new Twin-Ignition motor, Bijur Centralized Chassis Lubrication—press a pedal, your car is oiled—Lovejoy and Houdaille hydraulic shock absorbers.

And, every "400" model comes from the factory equipped with bumpers, hydraulic shock absorbers, spare tire lock and tire cover, at no extra cost. Some dealers, charge as much as $50 or $60 extra for bumpers alone.

Compare these Cabriolets to others, then compare their fully equipped, delivered prices. You'll see the advantage in buying a Nash!

'KONJOLA BEST MEDICINE IN DRUG STORE'

Man Says He Will Indorse Konjola To Everyone Because He Knows What It Will Do.

MR. ED. FAIRALL.

"I am recommending Konjola because it is the best medicine on the drug store shelf," said Mr. Ed. Fairall, 620 South Ludlow St., Dayton.
"Konjola relieved me of a severe case of stomach trouble. Gas bloating and severe pains in the pit of my stomach followed every meal. I was not getting the proper nourishment; nothing seemed to agree with me. My condition became so bad that at times I thought I would not be able to stand the misery.
"But Konjola freed me from all my aches and pains. Konjola is the best medicine in the drug store! Today I feel like a new man. My food digests as it should, and I get the proper nourishment. What a blessing it is to be freed from the dreadful bloating and gas pains! I am enjoying the best health I have had in years. I owe a great debt to Konjola and am indorsing it because I know what it can do."
Konjola is sold in Circleville, Ohio, by Hamilton & Ryan's drug store and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—Adv.

HOYT'S COMPOUND A FRIEND IN NEED

Well Known Springfield, Ohio, Lady Says She Is Like a New and Different Person Entirely.

Mrs. Sarah Crites, 224 W. Jefferson street, Springfield, Ohio, is another resident of this vicinity to come out with a statement praising the Hoyt's Compound which is the great medicine now being explained every day here in Circleville at Wilder's Drug Store.

MRS. SARAH CRITES.

"For years I have suffered with a severe stomach disorder," said Mrs. Crites. "It kept getting worse and my food would not digest properly and would simply lay in my stomach forming gas and causing severe pains all through my body. The gas seemed to push upward against my heart and cause a smothering sensation at which time I could hardly get my breath. Bowels became sluggish and clogged and I was forced to always take some kind of a laxative. Then my whole system began to go to pieces and my nerves were so bad that I could hardly sleep at night. Even the bed covers would irritate me and nearly drive me mad. Kidneys were deranged and I was troubled with night rising until finally my health was in a terrible condition. I had tried almost every kind of medicine and received little results from them. Then a friend persuaded me to try Hoyt's Compound and I got it and began taking it and was greatly surprised at the quick relief I had obtained. I feel that I am an ENTIRELY NEW person. My stomach is in perfect condition, bowels are regulated, and I sleep sound every night. Kidneys are strengthened and my entire system now feels clean and purified and I feel that I owe this great medicine a debt and I am repaying it by endorsing it to other sufferers."
Hoyt's Compound is sold at Wilder's Drug Store, Circleville, Ohio. Also sold by all leading druggists everywhere.—Adv.

"Not So Bad" at Pickaway Proves To Be Very Good

A well crowded house witnessed "Not So Bad" the senior class play in the auditorium of the Pickaway-twp. school, Thursday evening.

The scene of action centers around Grandmother Hobbs, and Mr. Betts. Mr. Betts, an old gentleman of 70, comes to Mr. Markham's camp, in New Hampshire, late in the evening on July 3. The next morning, all the servants of the Markham household "walk out," much to the embarrassment of the host and hostess, who realize that the house party they are giving in honor of their only daughter, must be postponed. Mrs. Hobbs thinks out the most wonderful plan whereby they may stay and do the work between them. Four days elapse and the new regime under Mrs. Hobbs has transformed the young people into natural girls and men. The guests have invested in P. D. Q. Oil Stock on the advice of Mr. Betts. In the meantime Dan Cupid has been very busy. The young people have planned a party for the last night. Grandmother Hobbs' exertion has proved a success and the young folks are really "Not So Bad." Miss Lucille Poling, who portrayed Grandmother Hobbs and Glen Ross, Mr. Betts acted their parts exceedingly well as did each of the entire cast which is as follows:

Mrs. Herbert Markham, hostess, woman of 50. Mary E. Rader, Mrs. Hobbs, Mrs. Markham's mother, aged 70. Lucille Poling, Kitty Ransom, a guest. Ruth Kreider, James, the butler in the Markham household. Claude Kreider, Harriett Wilson, a guest. Edna Timmons.

Louise Markham, Mrs. Markham's daughter. Bertha Bittzer, Ethel Griscom, a guest. Lucille French, Willard Hazard, a guest. Robert Bush, Tow Witherspoon, a guest. Forest Brown, Jimmy Tweed, a guest. Julius Wright, Morris Hunter, a guest. Melvin Kiger, Mr. Markham, Mrs. Markham's husband and the host. Frank Graves, Mr. Betts, an unbidden guest, aged 71. Glenn Ross, Edward, second man. John Hood, Sophy, parlor maid. Helen Anderson, Bridget, cook. Mary Valentine, Messenger. John Hood.

In the cast appears the name of every member of the senior class with the exception of Donald Dodd, who is recovering from a recent attack of pneumonia. Much credit is due Miss Mildred Wertman, English and history teacher of Pickaway for the splendid manner in which the class was drilled. The scenery which displayed real art was painted and arranged by Lee Smith.

The Parent-Teacher orchestra is to be commended too for their excellent music. Between scene one and scene two of act two the Class History was given by Miss Mary Valentine and the Class Prophecy by Miss Helen Anderson.

The play will be given again tonight. W. C. T. U. TO MEET IN ASHVILLE. The all day W. C. T. U. institute will be held at Mr. Della Hays in Ashville on Tuesday, May 21. A covered dish lunch will be served at noon. All members are urged to be present.

The Young Peoples' society of the East Ruggold U. B. church will sponsor a social on Friday evening, May 31, on the church lawn.

The menu calls for ice cream and cake, strawberries, chicken sandwiches, coffee, candy and a "whoopie" time.

TWO SHARE HONORS AT PYTHIAN SUPPER

The 81st birthday anniversary of "Daddy" John B. Majors, and the eighth anniversary of the installing of the Pythian Sisters lodge in Circleville, were celebrated Thursday night with a banquet at the Pythian temple. Mrs. Noel Fry, a member of the local chapter, who will leave soon for her new home in Dennison, O., was also honored at this occasion. "Daddy" Majors birthday anniversary will be May 26, and he founded the Majors temple here on May 5th, eight years ago.

The celebration began with a covered dish supper served by the officers of the temple, at which the guests of honor for the evening were seated together with several others, at a table on which a large birthday cake gleamed with the light from 81 candles. Mrs. Fry was presented with a beautiful white gold pendant, as a remembrance from her friends in the Circleville lodge. Mr. Majors received a great box of cigars, a birthday gift from his friends assembled there in his honor. Sister Florence Lathhouse was elected to fill the M. of R. C. chair, the position which was held by Mrs. Fry. Mrs. Max Carpenter was named to finish out this year as trustee.

This affair was one that will be long remembered by the members of the Majors temple and the esteem and affection in which Mr. Majors is regarded was shown by the large event in his honor. The fact that Mrs. Fry also shared honors at this occasion gave proof of how much she will be missed in the organization.

The lodge rooms were the scene of splendor with beautiful baskets of large red peonies, iris, and other spring flowers used in profusion. Mrs. Fry will probably leave Circleville the last of the month or the first of June for Dennison, O. where her husband has been transferred as agent of the American Railway Express Co.

ENJOY PICNIC NEAR WEST VIRGINIA TOWN. Mr. and Mrs. Allen R. Sherman of Columbus, and Mr. and Mrs. K. D. Groce of Walnut-twp. motored to Pomeroy and Gallipolis, O., Wednesday. At Gallipolis they crossed the bridge and enjoyed a picnic dinner near Point Pleasant W. Va.

MISS LUTZ TO ENTERTAIN GUEST

Miss Bernadine Lutz of Logan will spend the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Lutz of E. Main-st. She will be accompanied by a guest, Miss Mary Jane Anderson, who will remain until Sunday and for whom Miss Lutz will entertain with a small bridge gathering of three tables Saturday night at her home.

Violence Threatened

Miss Edith Rebman, secretary of Dr. T. T. Shields, Baptist Fundamentalist of Des Moines University, Iowa, who was threatened along with her employer with bodily harm by the students because of Shields' recent edict closing the school and dismissing the faculty. The students, however, got an injunction to reopen their classes.

MISS ROTH WINS PRIZE

Miss Martha Leist entertained the members of her bridge club Thursday night at her home on N. Court-st. Only the members of the club were present and of these Miss Elizabeth Roth held the high score for the evening and was presented the club prize.

EXCELLENT PROGRAM AT FATHER-SON MEETING

More than 120 members and guests were present at the annual Father and Son meeting which was held Thursday night by the Trinity Lutheran brotherhood at the parish house. This meeting was an important function, at which in addition to the Father and Son program, the largest feature of the evening the election of president and reporting secretary was held. This election resulted in C. L. Mack being named president and Ed Sensesbrenner reporting secretary.

H. M. Crites and his committee served an exceptionally fine lunch of baked ham, cheese sandwiches, pickles and coffee, made by the expert, George Himrod.

The business meeting, which was a little longer than usual because of the election of the two officers was followed by the program which was filled from start to finish with a delightful variety of entertainment, pertaining to the subject of fathers and their sons. George Griffith planned the program and had complete charge of its execution. The Rev. G. J. Troutman first to appear on the program spoke on "Sonny's Pals," which emphasized the theory that fathers should be the pals of their sons. E. C. Ebert read an excellent paper on "The Biggest Job in the World" which of course was the rearing of his two boys, but he stated at the beginning that rearing girls would be even a bigger job. Mr. Ebert especially emphasized the present day extravagance of parents in luxuries for their children.

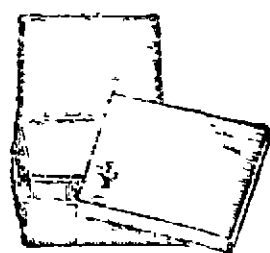

One of the outstanding and pleasant features of the program was the playing and singing by Meinhardt Crites, of "Silver Threads Among the Gold" and "Carolina Moon," accompanied by the coronet, played by his father.
